Tips on How to Determine Which LMS Report You Need

Determining the specific report, or reports, that will provide you with the data and details you need, from the dozens of reports available in the LMS, can feel a bit overwhelming – particularly for users new to the LMS. The following four tips on how to review and use the information compiled in the LMS Reports Dictionary will guide you in selecting the report(s) that yield the data you need.

Tip #1: Determine the data category, sub-category or keyword on which your reporting must focus

The LMS Reports Dictionary now includes two new helpful sections – Reports Listed by Category and Reports Listed by Keyword. The Reports Listed by Category section organizes the complete list of LMS reports based on the type of information the report is designed to yield. The Reports Listed by Keyword section organizes the complete list of LMS reports based on significant words that appear in the report title or report description. Review the lists of categories, sub-categories and keywords to identify those that are relevant to your reporting needs.

Tip #2: Within the list of reports within the category, sub-category, or keyword, review reports with titles that include HHS or NIH first, and then, consider the other reports in the list

Each data category, sub-category and keyword table includes a list of associated reports. After you have identified the categories, sub-categories and/or keywords relevant to your reporting needs, review the list of reports associated with each and select the specific report(s) you think you need.

Note that reports with HHS or NIH in their title are reports that have been customized for the special needs of HHS and NIH in terms of the data yielded and report formatting. Reports that do not have HHS or NIH in their title have not been customized to meet our needs. However, these non-customized reports may provide you with data helpful to your reporting needs and have, therefore, been included in the LMS Reports Dictionary. We recommend that you consider the customized reports first and then consider the other reports associated with the category, sub-category and/or keyword of your choice.

Tip #3: When you've found a report, or reports, that you think will meet your reporting needs, review the report's description page to confirm your selection

Each report has its own report description page that includes a description of what the report is designed to provide and a list of input and output parameters. After you've identified specific reports for review from the Reports Listed by Category and Reports Listed by Keyword sections, find the report in the alphabetized Table of Contents and click on its link to get to the report's description page. Review the report description page(s) to make a final determination that the report will return the data you need.

Return to Table of Contents

Tip #4: Then, confirm that the report is one that your LMS role will allow you to access

The report description page also includes a listing of the specific LMS roles that have permission to access and execute the report described. The listing appears on the report description page in parenthesis directly under the report title. Review the list of roles to confirm that you have the appropriate LMS privileges to access and execute a report. If you find that you do not have the appropriate LMS privileges, submit a LMS Help Desk ticket to request the report be run for you. Your Help Desk ticket must include all the reporting parameter information required for the report you need executed.
